

pilo (Coprosma cordicarpa)

RUBIACEAE, coffee family

This species is endemic to Kauaʻi, Oʻahu, Molokaʻi, Lānaʻi, and Maui (Wagner et al. 1990).

Summary statement of uses: No references of ethnobotanical uses for this species have been found.

Status at Auwahi: This tree is scattered usually in small groves in middle to upper Auwahi and is relatively common, at least in the upper parts.

